At least some monsters suggest potential adventures or at least interesting meetings, which is good. Art is totally black and white and it is not the best I have already seen, but there are some good peans in the whole and usually does a good job of describing the monsters. I think this book generally finds the common problem with later monster manuals: all the most ican monsters, as well as those exclusive to the basic, are being covered in the cycle rules, so it remains with Some interesting things, much like a lot of DREGs taken from Varia Fonts to fill the paddle count. However, there are enough clean monsters to make this a fun reading, and even things like the human humanities and giant animals can be fun to use from time to time. In addition, the book includes expanded meeting tables with self -monsters and cyclopedia rules and a tone for all D&D basic monsters, which is very cool. I feel that this is not even essential as the rules of Cyclopedia or its Old School's main book, but it is a good source of extra ideas of monsters and adventures and I don't care of Tãª it. In addition, it is always fun to read about new monsters and the history of the story they have. ... more Robin called that he really liked the 24 of Baby 2013 Troy classified that he liked January 11, 2016 Jeremy classified that he liked May 5, 2020 David Chmelik classified that it was incredible on May 2, 2008 Eric He classified that it was OK Nov 19, 2020 Black Clay classified that I really liked November 19, 2016 David classified that it was incredible July 11, 2012 afrut afrut ad oÃ§ÃacifissalC 2102 ed otsoga ed 10 ed uotsog etnemlaer euq uocifissalc pillihP 4102 ed orbutuo ed 60 levÃrcni iof euq uocifissalc sreyB nitsuA 0102 ,81 uotsog etnemlaer euq uocifissalc olumoR 8102 ed orbmetes ed 82 ed uotsog It was ok December 8, 2014 Bruce Banning called that I really liked December 17, 2014 Ax classified that it was incredible April 14, 2013 JM classified that he liked September 22, 2012 Michael classified that it was OK 09 August 2017 John Smith classification was incredible, August 10, 2018, Jason has classified that he liked June 19, 2012 in the 5th edition, now there are so many different books that it can be more difficult to accompany than the list of a wizard.
